Unit of Jungle Lodges & Resorts Ltd., Govt. of Karnataka, India.

One state. Many worlds.

Welcome to Bandipur National Park, nestled well amidst the UNESCO recognised Nilgiri Biosphere Reserve, India's first, the lodge is located off the Mysore - Ooty National Highway, adjacent to the Bandipur Tiger Reserve, one of the most densely populated tiger and elephant habitats in the country. It has to be seen to be believed. Elegantly built in contemporary style, the lodge offers amazing wildlife safari experiences. Enjoy the cool breeze wafting down hillsides and vistas while on a visit to Gopalaswamy Betta. Learn to identify jungle birds by their calls, relax by the campfire and watch the night sky.

In 1974, the Bandipur was declared a National Park under the Wildlife protection Act. The Bandipur National Park is one of its own kinds in Asia as it has huge elephant herds sharing border with Mudumalai National Park, Wayanad Wildlife Sanctuary and Nagarhole National Park. The highest density of Indian tigers is found here, it is also home to single largest Asiatic Elephant population in the world, in fact, about 6000+ wild elephants roam in these jungles.
